

Export statistics are compiled by the DGCI&S in accordance with the Revised Trade Classification and these are given in their publication entitled Monthly Statistics of the Foreign Trade of India Volume I—Exports and Re-exports. Under the classification there is no separate Code No. for Engineering Goods. However, for purposes of analysis, both the DGCI&S and EEPC add up figures of specified products to get the figures for engineering goods as a group. Certain products are included in the category of engineering goods both in the DGCI&S as well as the EEPC figures. However, certain other items classified as engineering products by the EEPC are not so classified by the DGCI&S. Besides, there are some items which are included as engineering goods by the DGCI&S but not by the EEPC. It would appear that in compiling its statistics, EEPC is guided by the desire to include only those items whose export promotion is the responsibility of the Council.

As question No. 943 related to the general progress of exports of non-traditional items, reliance was put on the statistics published by the DGCI&S in the reply. As the House knows, this is the standard source for foreign trade statistics. However, for a detailed analysis of exports of engineering goods whose promotion is the responsibility of the EEPC, we often use statistics published by the EEPC. Since Question No. 947 related to the operation of quality control on export oriented engineering goods, the figures used in answering it were those published by the EEPC.

I do recognise that the existence of two sets of figures for exports of engineering goods can cause unnecessary confusion. It would be the endeavour of the Foreign Trade Ministry to see that these figures do reconcile by adoption of uniform classification of engineering goods by the Export Promotion Council as also by the DGCI&S.
